

This halogen star projector transforms a darkened room into a 360-degree space theater. The Star Theater 2 Home Planetarium projects hundreds of stars, planets and constellations onto the walls and ceiling.

It's a whole new world for kids - by simply connecting this hand-held microscope to a TV, they can see any specimen magnified up to 200 times! The included base also allows youngsters to use it as a traditional tabletop microscope

What a great way to start a city! Use this kit to build an eye-catching office tower or one of two other buildings, complete with brilliant blue side panels and blue columns and beams. Easy-to-follow plans are included for three different structures. Your imagination is the limit!

Through building 36 models and conducting experiments with the models, you will learn the fundamental laws of mechanical physics. This hands-on approach is both fun and effective because the principles of physics are demonstrated right in front of you.

